Where's the Proof?

United States Sen. Stephen Young's recent charges of atrocities committed by CIA hirelings disguised as Viet Cong are much too serious to have been uttered without proper documentation.

No American citizen wants to believe that such things could happen. But, if so, the senator, supposedly in Viet Nam representing us on a fact-finding mission, should present us with the facts.

If, on the other hand, this is mere rumor, it ill becomes the honorable Mr. Young to lend the dignity of his high office to such charges without proper investigation.
